

Class Format:

This class will be slightly different from many of your usual classes. Some terms for our class format might be “relatively learner-centered” or “semi-rotated”. Research on learning supports the use of these systems, and if I were to ignore them, I would be utilizing outdated and even defective teaching methods. For example, current research demonstrates that repetition helps strengthen neuronetworks and thus, increases long-term learning. Frequent problem solving, reviews and cumulative exams are all effective methods of beneficial repetition. Other research-backed effective systems are outlined below.

Learning systems:

1. Lecturing: explaining difficult material not easily learned on your own with text, groups, etc.
2. Exams: exams should be learning tools as well as assessment tools! We will go over each exam in depth in class. Reviewing exams is one area where in-class discussion and

Assessment systems:

1. Cumulative Exams: shown to improve learning more than virtually every other technique. As noted above, exams are a part of the learning process, not just a part of assessment – we will go over every exam (except, unfortunately, the final) in class. It is important to review and relearn the material as we build upon that information. This increases long-term learning! There will be three exams and a cumulative final. All exams are cumulative, and the material does build on itself so it is important to understand all of the concepts as we go.
2. Article Presentation: to give incentives for giving high quality presentations and informing the class, these will be graded according to the rubric given below.
3. Quizzes on Article Readings: to motivate actually reading the articles. Since this is an upper-level course involving much discussion, your quiz grade can be improved by your efforts to add to that discussion. This is a “be here” class – if you put in the effort, you will do well. If you prefer a class where you can just get the notes, skip a lot of classes and take some tests, then another course would be more appropriate.
