

Francisca Antman, Professor

PhD, Stanford University, 2007

FIELDS

Economic Development • Labor Economics • Public Economics

CURRENT RESEARCH INTERESTS

International migration and human capital investments; income inequality; poverty traps; adult children's care for elderly parents; economic mobility of individuals and families over time and generations; allocation of resources within households and families; endogeneity of race and ethnicity; economic development in historical perspective.

SELECTED WORKS

"When Beer is Safer than Water: Beer Availability and Mortality from Waterborne Illnesses," (with James M. Flynn) Journal of Development Economics, forthcoming.

“Vulnerability to Waterborne Illnesses: The Role of Beer Availability and Mortality from Waterborne Illnesses,” (with James M. Flynn) Oxford Review of Economic Policy, forthcoming.

"Demographic Diversity and Economic Research: Fields of Specialization and Research on Race, Ethnicity, and Inequality," (with Kirk Doran, Xuechao Qian, and Bruce Weinberg) AEA Papers and Proceedings, 114: 528-534, May 2024.